AWARD GUIDELINES

Faculty awarded a Semester RASA will be released from teaching duties during the semester for which the award is granted, and for which the faculty’s department will be compensated. Faculty awarded a Summer RASA will receive a stipend of $9,000 for two months during the summer for which the award is granted.

Awards are made with the understanding that the holder will relinquish the RASA if external support is received for the same project for the same period.

Award recipients are strongly encouraged to be mentor to a graduate student or students in the funded project. Recipients are also encouraged to present methods and results of the funded project, during or immediately following the period of the award, in a forum or fora directed specifically to graduate students (e.g., a lecture, reading, colloquium, workshop, etc).

Award recipients are strongly encouraged to apply for external funding in the form of fellowships or grants as appropriate. A demonstrable attempt to secure external funding following the period of a RASA, even if unsuccessful, will be a prerequisite for receiving a subsequent RASA.

Award recipients are expected to submit a report on the results of the award and the progress of the funded project within three months of the completion of the award period.
The Graduate School will maintain an archive of materials resulting from funded projects. Copies of work supported by RASA should be submitted to the Graduate School upon publication.

Award recipients are expected to acknowledge the Graduate School RASA in publications or other materials supported by the award. Where appropriate, performance programs should acknowledge the support of the RASA.

Award recipients may be called upon by the Graduate School to serve on the RASA Committee in subsequent years.

AWARD ELIGIBILITY

Faculty members may not apply for a RASA and a CAPAA (or a Semester and Summer RASA) in the same year.

RASA can be accepted only by faculty members who will remain on the University of Maryland, College Park faculty in the year following the receipt of the award.

The Summer RASA is available only to faculty on 9-, 9.5-, or 10-month contracts who are not teaching during the summer and whose projects are not funded from other sources during the summer.

Faculty members are eligible for only one CAPAA or RASA (formerly GRB) in any three-year-period:

- A faculty member who took a semester award in AY 2013-2014 is first eligible to receive another semester award in AY 2017-18, and is welcome to apply in this current competition cycle (Fall 2016).
- A faculty member who took a semester award in AY 2013-2014 is first eligible to receive a summer award in Summer 2017, and is welcome to apply in this current competition cycle (Fall 2016).
- A faculty member who took a summer award in Summer 2014 is first eligible to receive a semester award in AY 2017-18, and is welcome to apply in this current competition cycle (Fall 2016).
- A faculty member who took a summer award in Summer 2014 will be eligible to receive another summer award in Summer 2018, and should apply during the next competition cycle (Fall 2017).

RASA SELECTION COMMITTEE

The RASA selection committee comprises individuals from various disciplines across the campus and therefore is not a disciplinary peer review committee in the usual sense. Please present your proposal in language and format understandable by scholars who are not specialists in your discipline. The application requires a summary and a description for your proposal. For the summary, it is essential to define the project’s importance to your discipline in terms clear to non-specialists. Technical details should be provided in the Project Description. Clarity and comprehensibility will be part of the criteria for evaluation.
